PITTSFIELD WOMAN KILLED, HUSBAND INJURED IN CRASH

Tragic End Is Written To Dramatic Rescue Efforts

KATHY FISCUS SUCCUMBS IN WELL TOMB

Doctor Decides Three-Year-Old Child Did Not Live Long After Falling Into Well

ENDS TEARFUL VIGIL

San Marino, Calif., April 11—(P)—The world is a little sadder today. Little Kathy Fiscus was brought up dead from her well tomb after 52 hours.

All mothers and fathers shared in some measure the grief that overcame David and Alice Fiscus when the body of their tow-headed three-year-old was found lying in water, wedged about 100 feet down in the 14-inch pipe.

The announcement of death, by drowning, at 8:58 (PST) last night brought to a tragic end the tireless digging of weary rescuers and the anxious waiting of sympathizers everywhere.

Since sunny, little Kathy, running at play, stumbled into the weed-covered well opening last Friday afternoon, accounts of the attempt to reach her had stirred the nation, and the rest of the world, as few stories have in years.

Even though nothing had been heard from the child since about an hour after she plunged into the abandoned old casing, hope and prayer filled most human hearts. A crowd of more than 15,000 watched final rescue efforts.

Dr. Robert McCullough, family physician, said Kathy had been dead "since last heard from Friday afternoon." Then her terrified screams drifted faintly up to her mother, efforts to have her grab a rope failed, and all was silent. There was still water in the old well after 45 years.

The body was finally found on a warm Palm Sunday as O. A. Kelly cut through the tough old casing. He called up for a doctor to come down the 100-foot shaft and see what he thought. Dr. McCullough (Turn to Page Seven)

Neglect of Mental Hospitals Scored

Philadelphia, April 11—(P)—The United States has no first rate mental hospitals, a noted psychiatrist asserted today.

Dr. Mesrop A. Tarumian, superintendent of the state hospital at Farnhurst, Del., told the opening session of the Mental Health Institute that mental hospitals—particularly public institutions—have been neglected "for many generations."

Sponsored by the American Psychiatric Association, (AP), the institute is the first meeting of its kind. The five-day conclave is being attended by 150 ranking mental health experts in the United States and Canada.

Dr. Tarumian, who is chairman of the APA's committee on psychiatric standards, said the neglect of mental hospitals is due partly to lack of understanding by the people and to "lethargy of our various national medical associations and particularly psychiatrists."

The psychiatrist said there are about 450 public and private mental hospitals in the U. S., and that to comply with APA standards they need:

9,000 psychiatrists, 3,000 neurologists, 3,000 clinical psychologists, 40,000 graduate nurses, 92,000 trained attendants and others.

Circus Elephant in Jackpot Proves Problem for Winner

Donora, April 11—(P)—What would you do if you won an 8,000-pound elephant?

For Mrs. Freda Perry, wife of a Donora steelworker, that question is far from academic today. Mrs. Perry won a circus elephant and other prizes totaling $23,600 last night for correctly identifying an old English tune—"St. Paul's Steeple" on the American Broadcasting Company's "stop the Music" program.

Mrs. Perry and her husband, who earns $75 a week in the American Steel and Wire Company plant, have been married three years. They do not have any children.

Five of Hitler's Top Men Convicted by U. S. Court Of Helping Plan Aggressive War

Nuernberg, Germany, April 11—(P)—Five of Hitler's top government officials were convicted by a U. S. war crimes court today of helping him plan aggressive war.

They were the first Germans to be convicted of war plotting by an "All-American court." Not since the international military tribunal convicted Hermann Goering and 18 other high Nazis nearly three years ago had any German been found guilty on this charge.

Today's verdicts began the final act of this last war crimes trial before an American court.

One of those convicted today was Baron Ernst von Weizsaecker, state secretary in Hitler's foreign office and one time Nazi ambassador to the Vatican. He was found guilty of plotting aggressive war against Czechoslovakia.

Weizsaecker was the chief defendant among the 21 Nazi diplomats and government officials on trial.

Also convicted were: Wilhelm Keppeler, 66, Hitler's economic adviser and founder of the "Circle of Friends" of the Gestapo chief, Heinrich Himmler.

Ernest Woermann, 61, chief of the political division of the foreign office.

Heinrich Lammers, 69, one-eyed chief of the Hitler Reich chancellery, described by the court as one of the most powerful men in the Nazi hierarchy.

Paul Koerner, 55, industrialist who was Goering's deputy in the four-year Reich. The court said his job was to "make Germany ready for war in four years."

The sentences probably will not be announced until Thursday, when the three-judge court completes reading its 833-page finding.

There were 21 defendants tried on seven different counts, of which plotting aggressive war was the first. Nine defendants were acquitted of this charge. The other seven were not accused under it.

The 21 defendants all were diplomats or high officials of the Nazi government. The prosecution called them the "core of Nazi conquests, without whom Hitler could not have waged his war."

Weizsaecker was the chief defendant.

One of the defendants, Gustav Steingracht von Moyland, was struck with typhoid fever as the trial's end neared.

A capacity crowd turned out to hear the final judgment in the same courtroom where Hermann Goering and 11 other high Nazi leaders were sentenced to death by an international military tribunal in the first war crimes trial in 1945.

The judgment in the final case, which rings down the curtain on one of history's greatest legal dramas, runs 833 pages. It will take four days to read in court. Sentencing, therefore, will not come before Thursday.

Two persons were injured and the Walter Thayer home, 6 Main street, North Warren, was heavily damaged by a spectacular fire which disrupted church services in that community Sunday morning.

Undergoing treatment at Warren General Hospital today is Mr. Thayer, aged about 60, who suffered severe burns about the arms and face.

James Millirons, of the State Hospital fire department, received several cuts and was overcome by smoke. He received emergency treatment at the hospital and was taken home.

North Warren firemen were joined by fire-fighting units from Warren and the State Hospital, and the blaze was quickly brought under control, despite its big start.

Water for fighting the fire had to be procured from Conewago creek, 500 feet away, since North Warren has no water hydrant system. The North Warren pumper truck drew the water out of the creek, and pumped it to Warren's No. 2 truck, which was used as a booster at the fire scene.

In addition garden hoses were strung from several nearby homes to keep the booster tank filled on North Warren's second truck. Also on the scene were the State Hospital's ladder truck and Warren's Emergency truck.

Mr. Thayer was alone in the front of the house, and apparently was unaware of the fire until the alarm was sounded. He is believed to have been burned by a flash of flame when he opened the back door of the house. Mrs. Thayer (Turn to Page Seven)

DEATH ENDS PARTY
Pittsburgh, April 11—(P)—A weekend party in suburban Mt. Lebanon ended in tragedy with the fatal shooting of Robert E. Griffith, 22, former merchant marine veteran and bridegroom of two months.

The coroner's office today said its investigation of the early morning shooting yesterday was incomplete. Griffith was killed by the discharge from a gun he was carrying on the stairway of his home after he and relatives returned from a neighborhood tavern.

Forrestal Patient In Medical Center
Washington, April 10—(P)—Former Secretary of Defense James Forrestal was reported in "satisfactory condition" today at the Naval Medical Center at Bethesda, Md.

Hospital authorities said that Forrestal, who became a patient there a week ago, was resting comfortably. The hospital said he was undergoing a routine checkup. Former associates said over the weekend that he is suffering from nervous exhaustion.

Some of Forrestal's closest friends in the defense establishment said that they had not seen or talked with him since he entered the hospital.

One said he knew that Forrestal was physically "worn out" and had requested that no visitors be permitted so as to allow him full rest. He said Forrestal's feeling is that he is "very tired and has a right to privacy."

Forrestal went to Florida for a few days after he relinquished office duties, then returned here to enter Bethesda Hospital.

—Including a new automobile, new wardrobes, trips to London, New York and the Kentucky Derby, a fur coat worn by motion picture star Claudette Colbert, a $3,000 diamond ring, and a $1,000 investment in a Broadway show.

But the elephant—
"Gee, I don't know what I'll do with that elephant," said Mrs. Perry as scores of neighbors poured into the Perry home last night. "We'll need help on that."

Someone suggested the animal might be donated to a zoo.

"Why," said Mrs. Perry with a look of some relief, "that might be an idea after all."

Mr. Perry wasn't worried about anything.

"This sure is wonderful. I sure

SIX KILLED IN CHURCH BLAST AT SERVICES

Small South Dakota Town Plans Mass Funeral for Holy Week Worshipers

47 OTHERS INJURED

Marion, S. D., April 11—(P)—This small South Dakota town today planned a mass funeral for the six Holy Week worshippers killed Sunday as a blast demolished St. Mary's Catholic church.

Bishop William O. Brady of Sioux Falls, Diocese head, tentatively set Wednesday for the mass rites for the elderly victims who died as they knelt in prayer. Forty-seven other persons were injured, several critically.

The brick church was shattered by a basement explosion a few moments before the 9 a. m. Palm Sunday mass was to begin. Only the entrance bell tower remained standing. A small fire that followed was quickly put out.

Church officials attributed the blast to escaping bottled furnace fuel gas. Phil Wachendorf, a parishioner, said "everything blew up" when he threw a furnace switch.

Although buried in the wreckage and suffering from injuries and serious burns, Wachendorf was able to free himself and crawl out.

Others were pinned under bricks and timbers which had to be pried loose to free them. The church had a seating capacity of 250 but only about 75 worshippers were in their pews. Many others stood in small groups outside while waiting for the mass to begin. They escaped injury.

The priest, Father Joseph Zimmerman, was hurried to a hospital to enter the palm benediction. When some of the parishioners complained the church was cold, Wachendorf volunteered to turn on the furnace. A moment later the church was in ruins.

Miss Agnes Kleszka, rectory housekeeper, said she was leaving for church when she heard the explosion and saw the walls crumble, the roof cave in.

"I started putting in calls for doctors," she said.

Attracted by the explosion, townsmen rushed to the church to help with the rescue work. Screams of victims helped guide the rescuers to the injured.

Among first on the scene was Dr. A. P. Reding whose mother, Mrs. Peter Reding, was among those killed. Joined by Dr. W. E. Heib, he gave first aid to the injured. Both made a house-to-house canvass later to make sure none of the injured had gone untreated to their homes.

Those killed, besides Mrs. Reding, were Mr. and Mrs. John Marso, Mrs. George Bittner and Mrs. Philip Luke, all of Marion, and Charles McGinnis of nearby Monroe. All were in their 60s or 70s.

Funds For VA Reduced By Half Billion

Washington, April 11—(P)—A half billion dollar cut in Veterans' administration funds highlighted contract authorizations for which future appropriations may be required. The president had asked for $7,775,566,530 in cash and $536,000,000 in contract authority.

Not only did the committee up the president's budget on the money items, but it refused to follow his budget bureau's recommendation for cancellation of $237,000,000 in previously authorized veterans' hospital construction.

The bill's total includes $7,104,571,608 in cash and $472,314,628 in contract authorizations for which future appropriations may be required. The president had asked for $7,775,566,530 in cash and $536,000,000 in contract authority.

Rescue Attempt of Girl That Failed

Curious and sympathetic spectators look on as work crews feverishly dig a trough alongside a 120-foot dry well into which three-year-old Kathy Fiscus had fallen, in San Marino, Calif. Two holes parallel to the rusty, 14-inch well casing were dug, but one was stopped at 65 feet by layers of rock and shale. A shaft was driven from the other to the well casing at a depth of approximately 75 feet. Meanwhile, air was pumped into the well in an attempt to keep the girl alive. This proved unavailing for her lifeless body was recovered 52 hours after she fell into the well.

Heavy Truck Smashes Through Living Room

Philadelphia, April 11—(P)—There was a thunderous crash and when Mrs. Margaret Roth, 39-year-old Scottish war bride, turned around her living room was a shambles.

"I was transfixed," said Mrs. Roth. "I thought it was an explosion. I know about explosions because I was through the blitz in Britain."

But it was no blitz that blasted the Roth house today. A heavy junk truck drifted driverless down the street and smashed through the front of the house.

Mrs. Roth came here from Helensburgh near Clydebank, a Scottish shipbuilding center.

Capitol Hill Planning For Labor Debate

Washington, April 11—(P)—Congressional friends and foes of the Taft-Hartley act maneuvered today toward real action in the battle over repeal of the law.

CIO unions were under orders to drum up "additional and badly needed support" among congressmen for the administration's labor bill.

Two Republican senators meanwhile planned extensive alterations for the measure when it hits the senate floor.

Capitol Hill's big labor debate of 1949 is scheduled now to begin April 26 in the house. Due to a jam of business, the senate probably will not join in the tussle until several weeks later.

The house rules committee is due to decide today or tomorrow on clearing the administration bill for floor action.

The week-end produced two important developments.

Senators Taft (R-Ohio) and Ives (R-NY) tentatively agreed on a bundle of amendments they plan to offer to the administration bill.

CIO President Philip Murray called for faster action on repeal of the law almost unanimously opposed by labor unions, and branded as a "foul concoction" a proposed substitute for the administration's repealer.

The Taft-Ives proposals were expected to attract strong senate support. Taft led senators who worked over a house labor bill in 1947 and blended it with a senate bill into the present law. Ives had wide experience with labor problems in the New York legislature before coming to congress.

While subject to change, they were reported to have decided on a national emergency strike section providing for a 60-day cooling off period which could be enforced by an injunction or plant seizure if necessary. A survey board, named by the president, could recommend terms of settlement.

CIVIL WAR VET DIES AT NEWTON AT 102

Newtown, April 11—(P)—Charles H. Duckworth, one of the last Civil War veterans in Pennsylvania, died yesterday at his home in this eastern Pennsylvania community. He was 102.

Duckworth, who had been ill for the last three weeks, left the farm where he was employed as a chore boy to join the Union forces on his 16th birthday in 1863.

He served first as a drummer boy, later transferring to Company I, Pennsylvania Cavalry, fighting with that unit through the Battle of the Wilderness.

"Home Rule" Rent Control Bill Heading For Assembly

Harrisburg, April 11—(P)—Administration-backed "home rule" rent control legislation is ready for introduction into the general assembly.

Only final clearance on details by Gov. James H. Duff is needed to start the bill through the law-making mill, probably this week.

Recent federal legislation set up a process for removal of rent controls by states, cities or other local areas. It provides that Pennsylvania and other states could remove controls throughout a state or in parts of a state.

The procedure also allows the governing body of a city or other locality to pass a resolution calling for decontrol and, if the governor approved, then rent controls would end there.

The Duff bill, however, eliminates the possibility that the entire state could be decontrolled in one fell swoop.

But new powers are given to cities, boroughs and townships to hold hearings on whether controls in the particular municipality should be ended. The governing body, after weighing the evidence, then could continue the ball rolling in the direction of decontrol by passing a resolution to that effect.

The upper chamber is due to vote finally on an administration plan to free Pennsylvania's last 10 privately owned toll bridges.

It is also expected to receive a new bill, backed by the governor, to set up a fair employment practices commission.

The senate-passed program to broaden teachers' retirement benefits appeared stymied in the lower chamber in the face of mounting pressure to increase salaries of Pennsylvania's nearly 60,000 school teachers.

The general appropriation bill introduced last week failed to include any increased funds for salaries.

The governor met with top legislative leaders on the weekend to iron out the remaining wrinkles in the administration's overall program with a view of adjourning by the end of the month. Much of the discussion at the conference was occupied by proposals on what to do about the 1947 local tax law.

Supreme Court Ruling Denies Charles Kline a New Trial

The State Supreme Court, by a 4 to 2 vote, today reversed a ruling of the State Superior Court in which a new trial was granted Charles J. Kline, Warren salesman convicted of statutory rape. Dismissing opinions were filed by Justices Stern and Stearns, but have no effect on the majority ruling of the court.

An Associated Press dispatch from Philadelphia said the Supreme Court's ruling directed that the judgment and sentence of the Warren county court be reinstated. Kline is now serving a 7½ to 15 year sentence in Western Penitentiary.

He was convicted in a trial by jury here last fall and sentence was imposed by Judge Allison D. Wade.

The Supreme Court's ruling marks the end of the trail in a long series of legal proceedings in the case.

Following his conviction in Warren county court, Kline appealed to the Superior Court for a new trial. His appeal was made by Edward S. Petrillo, prominent Erie attorney, while the commonwealth was represented by District Attorney M. A. Kornreich and Assistant Council Sidney W. Blackman.

The Superior Court granted Kline a new trial in grounds the commonwealth had introduced improper rebuttal testimony.

EX-GOVERNOR WEDS ADOPTED DAUGHTER

Poulan, Ga., April 11—(P)—Michigan's elderly former Governor Chase S. Osborn, who rose from a sickbed Saturday to marry his adopted daughter, remained in a critical condition today.

His doctor, J. J. Crumley, said yesterday the 89-year-old friend of nine presidents was near death. A few hours later, however, he reported Osborn had made another of his amazing rallies and was resting comfortably.

Crumley said the aged philanthropist made a miraculous response to a blood plasma transfusion and a glucose injection. But he added Osborn still is in grave condition.

"Michigan's grand old man" married his adopted daughter, 55-year-old Stellanova, Saturday in his Georgia retreat, Pousum Lake in Pousum Lane, Mrs. Osborn's home.

Osborn's adoption was dissolved shortly before the ceremony for sentimental reasons.

House Pushes For Action On ECA Program

Washington, April 11—(P)—A Democrat stepped up today to sponsor a 10 per cent fund cut as the house pushed toward a showdown on the new European recovery program.

That gave a bi-partisan tint to the campaign for a cut being waged by the house. But backers of the second installment on the Marshall plan insist they have the

Pontiff Administers Easter Communion to Lay Assistants

Vatican City, April 11—(P)—Members of Pope Pius Twelfth's family and lay assistants to the Pope today received Easter communion from the Pontiff's own hand, during a mass led by the Pope.

This private ceremony was one of two in which the Pope will participate during Easter week. It took place in the red-draped Consistorial Hall—scene of papal elections—in the Apostolic Palace beside the Basilica of St. Peter.

There also, on Thursday, the Pope will give communion to his ecclesiastical staff. As for the past two years, the aging Pontiff will not lead the Easter masses he previously celebrated in the Sistine Chapel during Holy Week.

Some 250 received Communion from the Pope today.

More than 40,000 Roman Catholics jammed St. Peter's Basilica yesterday—Palm Sunday—for the start of the week-long ceremonies. Mass was sung by Monsignor Ferdinando Prosperini at the rites commemorating the triumphal entry of Christ into Jerusalem almost two thousand years ago.

From the city in the troubled Holy Land came reports that Palm Sunday passed as just an ordinary working day. United Nations officials continued their meetings to implement the recent truce between Israel and Trans-Jordan.

However, the traditional processions were held in the Garden of Gethsemane and the Mount of Olives.

Bright sun shining—new greenery showing—soft breezes calling you onto the highway—this is the season that Buick of yours was made for!

This is the time when you'll want to hear the sweet hum of its eager power, feel the lazy comfort of its easy stride, get the springtime feel of its thrilling action.

And you can have all that—with just a little attention to some simple things to shake the winter out of its bones.

For instance—the rusty sludge that has accumulated in your radiator should be cleaned out. Transmission and rear end may be low on lubrication, and should be checked. Crankcase oil should be changed to a summer grade.

The underside of your car has taken a lot of splashing on wet roads. Some of the chassis grease has been washed out, some of it fouled with mud and grit.

'Miss Airways'

Vivian Kennedy, 21, has been chosen "Miss Airways of April" by the KLM Royal Dutch Airlines. Vivian loves to dance and ice skate, but most of all wants to marry and have a large family—at least four or five youngsters. ROYAL ARCANUM
A large turnout is hoped for at the meeting of Coneywango Council, Royal Arcanum, scheduled at 8 p. m. Tuesday in the S. F. of A. Hall.

The annual Lenten tea was held Wednesday afternoon in the Lutheran church. Scripture reading and prayer by Mrs. Robert York and Rev. Earl Carlson, pastor of the church, followed the opening hymn. A piano solo was played by Donald Walter. An inspiring talk with the theme, "The Listening Heart" was given by Mrs. Guy McCloskey of Warren. A soprano solo was sung by Jeanene Williams, followed by a violin solo by Reid Detar. The program closed with a hymn, followed by the Lord's prayer. Following the devotional program, guests were invited to the social rooms, where pleasing refreshments were served from a beautifully appointed buffet table at which Mrs. Fred Beckenbach and Mrs. Joe Swanson poured.

Police were also called upon to escort two drunks to the county jail for terms of 5 and 10 days each. A mad dog on Alston street yesterday morning was sent to dog heaven by a well-placed shot. Kids who damaged young trees on Central avenue were given a short talk, and P. N. Wettlaufer, 118 Parker street, reported to police that flower bushes valued at $50 had been trampled by an unknown person.

An attempted break-in at the Gibson Confectionery, 829 Fourth avenue, was discovered yesterday morning and police were called to investigate. The lock on the door showed unmistakable signs of tampering sometime between midnight of Saturday and early yesterday morning.

Otherwise, family battles, cars blocking driveways and unlocked doors kept officers busy for the weekend.

Three Auto Accidents In Boro Probed

City police were called upon to investigate three automobile accidents over the weekend in addition to their usual number of routine calls.

Friday afternoon at 3:46 o'clock, officers went to Fifth and East streets where a two-car accident between vehicles operated by Raymond Cherons, 117 St. Clair street, and Peter E. Johanson, 22 Brook street, had taken place. Cherons was driving south on East and Johanson east on Fifth. Damage was estimated at $200.

A few minutes later, a three-car crash occurred at Fifth and Market when cars operated by Mary Elizabeth Wilson, 102 West Fifth avenue, Kathryn Kuhre, 7 Linwood street and E. M. Laufer, of North Warren, caused damage to each other estimated at $300. According to the police report, the Wilson car was proceeding west on Fifth avenue and the Kuhre car was proceeding east on Fifth. Both cars had stopped for the stop signs, and the Wilson car started across Market street. Smoking Party Costs Mitchum About $25,000.00

By BOB THOMAS
Hollywood—That little party up in Laurel Canyon last September cost Robert Mitchum about $25,000.

This is one of the things the actor disclosed as he returned to work after serving fifty days in jail on a marijuana conspiracy conviction. He shrugged off the sum.

"What's twenty-five grand?" he said. "I'm broke all the time, no matter how you look at it."

Mitchum's first morning at work was as though he had never been gone. He kidded with the crew as usual. He greeted newcomers with "nothing to it." His first scene for "The Big Steal" had him walking down a hotel hallway, pulling out a pistol and entering.

After he had finished the scene, I asked him if he had made any resolutions. "Resolutions!" he said in denial.

How did he think the jail would affect him?

"Personally—not at all, except that I can't act like a scoutmaster anymore. Professionally—that's someone else's problem, not mine."

Mitchum has been reading some of his vast mail. He said it is mostly sympathetic. Many of the correspondents were of the soul-saving type. One woman even claimed that he married her at the age of fifteen. "Please come and get me," she wrote because they said I can get out if someone will take care of me."

Another proposition came from a fellow inmate.

"This Sunday you ought to go very quietly to church service," the jailbird said. "Then when you get sprung, you tell people you've been 'saved.' Then you lure a big hall and sell tickets at 50 cents a head. There are 50 million kids in this country who would pay four bits to hear how you were 'saved.' You could give up the movie business."

When Mitchum failed to display interest in the plan, the inmate added, "that's the difference between you and a criminal."

Approximately 30,000,000 automobiles are owned by about 25,000,000 families in the United States.

New Camera Shutter Beats Speed of Light

New York—(P)—A new camera shutter that beats the speed of light was shown to the Society of Motion Picture Engineers.

The shutter is small enough to fasten in front of an ordinary pocket-size camera. Point this camera directly at the sun, push a button that snaps the shutter, and you get no picture.

Only a few feet of light gets through, even though the sunlight is travelling 186,000 miles a second. The amount of light reaching the film is not enough to expose it, for even bright sunlight has to have a small fraction of time to pile up on a film.

In the laboratory this shutter can operate faster than a flash of light travelling from the camera to a mirror ten feet away and back. No light gets back before the shutter closes. Mirrors a few inches apart, one farther than the other from the camera, can be picked up one at a time by timing the return flash.

The shutter is still partly a wartime secret. It was shown by Dr. A. M. Zarem, director of the Stanford Research Foundation, Los Angeles.

The shutter is a combination of a liquid, a battery cell in the liquid, known as a Kerr cell, and polarizing lenses.

Former Warrenite Is Head of V. F. W. Post at Hazleton

Through the Plain Speaker, published in Hazleton, it is learned that a former Warren man, Walter A. Jackson, has been elected commander of the Drake-Weir Post No. 589, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and was formally installed to that post on April 5.

A veteran of World War II and manager of the Samillon ladies' apparel store, he has been with that firm for 22 years. He opened the company's store in Hazleton in November, 1945, and, with his wife and daughter, resides at 628 Grant street.

A native of Warren, he spent his youth here and in 1937 went with Samillon's as manager of their Oil City store. He also opened new stores for the firm in towns and cities of Ohio, Illinois and in Pennsylvania.

In 1942 he enlisted in the United States Army in Pittsburgh and after six months of training, was assigned overseas. He served in Scotland, England, France, Belgium and Germany. He was with the 808 for a year, then transferred to the 351st A.W. Battalion. After 30 months overseas duty, he returned to the United States and was honorably discharged at Indianapolis, Ind.

A few weeks later, he returned to Samillon's and was assigned to Hazleton to open the new store.

Officials of the Blackstone Corp. at Jamestown announced Thursday that the recently renewed negotiations with union representatives have been broken off. The company also declared that 26 demands made by union representatives had been granted. The union on the other hand said that a meeting of the membership ending shortly before noon today resulted in a vote to reject a company offer which included 12 proposals.

The Nation Today

MR. TRUMAN'S FOUR YEARS

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington—Four years ago tomorrow, April 12, Harry S. Truman became president when President Roosevelt died.

When he moved into the White House, war with Germany was ending. Japan was soon to be crushed with the atom bomb, an event that changed world history. The United Nations was created in the hope it might keep peace. Four years have shown its failure. And in his first few months in office, the United States had to be set spinning back into peacetime ways. It was done with jolts and jerks.

War-time controls were ripped off, some too fast. Strikes sprouted, holding up peacetime goods.

The mood in congress as the months passed, was to ditch price controls, let prices run free. Mr. Truman warned against it.

His own Democrats were in control of congress but, spearheaded by the Republicans, they cut the legs from under OPA. It soon died.

Prices shot through the roof, bringing the country a great inflation. They're still skyhigh, may be coming down a bit now.

Mr. Truman had tied a honeymoon with congress in his early days as president. But that ended in a bust and never has been patched up.

Voters, fed up with the Democrats, gave the Republicans control in 1946. It was Mr. Truman's worst defeat.

He reversed that in 1948 with his own election, biggest surprise in American political history. And the Democrats won control of congress again.

But congress doesn't seem to be paying much attention to his wishes, at least for things at home.

Yet, in spite of his difficulties with congress, Americans are making more money than ever before. The land is rich, teeming with money, goods, and food.

But meanwhile the skies have darkened beyond the shores. His hopes of getting along with Russia have gone down the drain.

As he watched the Russians swallow eastern Europe, his mood hardened. He set up the Truman doctrine: A policy of blocking Russia wherever it tries to make a thrust.

Under that policy we've helped Greece and Turkey, created the Marshall plan for helping western Europe, and now we've entered the Atlantic Pact with western Europe to stop Russia with steel if need be.

As Mr. Truman goes into his fifth year in the White House, only four years away from World War II, the air is full of talk of new war. Where we go, no one knows, not even Mr. Truman.

Washington, April 11—(P)—I must have a tin ear, or maybe the wave length's wrong, but when economists talk it's like listening to the people upstairs. It's over my head. And all I hear is a buzz.

Some of the people who keep giving me trouble are President Truman's Council of Economic Advisors, a three-man outfit which issues reports every now and then on the state of the nation.

A little while ago when prices dropped, the chief of the council, Dr. Edwin G. Nourse, said we're in a period of "healthy disinflation" and that pulled the light switch on me altogether.

And on March 18 in Chicago he said the price drop is not a picture of "unforeseen and uncontrollable disaster" but may be a "rational and guided action."

Then this week he came back, speaking of the "progressive abatement of inflationary pressures." He said:

"It is still too soon to be sure whether this easing will go so much further as to produce a real recession or whether it may level out or give way to renewed forces of inflation."

I took that home with me and if I understand the language Dr. Nourse is saying now he doesn't know whether we're headed for a boom or bust.

But he said a lot of other things on Tuesday and a lot of other people besides me must have had some trouble with his prose because yesterday Mr. Truman came to the rescue and said Dr. Nourse was quoted out of context in reports on his talk.

Seems Dr. Nourse was speaking of three things: The money we have to spend on our armed forces; the money we have to spend on Marshall plan help for Europe; and the money we have to spend arming our allies under the Atlantic Pact.

The question was: Do we have to add the Atlantic Pact money to the money for the other two, or what do we do?

I think Dr. Nourse had an answer for this, but I'm not sure, so I'll just quote him, in part at least, and hope I'm not quoting him out of context:

"In the somewhat technical terms of the economist and the business manager, we have turned to horizontal integration of the defense function to effect operative economies."

Under this integration we expect to buy better security at the same cost or even, in due time, at lower cost than would otherwise be required.

"That is, we are now giving

MacKenzie's Column

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
A Foreign Affairs Analyst

Britain's chancellor of the exchequer, Sir Stafford Cripps, who has won the sobriquet of the "iron chancellor" because of his insistence of national austerity, has a conscience like the Rock of Gibraltar—impervious to storms.

Again this doughty guardian of John Bull's purse strings has dared to face a critical house of commons and present a budget which means an even higher cost of living, with only minor tax relief. Thus the long-suffering British public, which has been living with belt tightened across its lean stomach since early in the war, must continue to grin and bear it.

The strain has been so tough that even the left wing of Cripps' own Socialist party has been clamoring for easement. But Cripps, austere of men as well as of thought, has clung to the course that has been chosen as the only possible route to a balanced national budget. He hopes to achieve this by 1952 when Marshall plan relief is due to terminate.

A gauge of the government's daring may be had in the fact that Britain is due for a general election next year. At that time the nation will pass judgment on England's first outright Socialist regime and decide whether it is to continue in power or be scrapped. (Turn to Page Twelve)

Sugar Grove Will Go On Daylight Time

Sugar Grove, April 8—Hosea Gourley, president of borough council, was in charge of the April meeting last week, when it was decided to join with other communities of the council in a daylight saving time schedule to be in effect from Sunday, April 24, to September 24.

The first week of May will be official cleanup week and collections will be made the latter part of the week. Many complaints were received of damage being done by the many dogs running loose, but no definite action was taken.

Hal Boyle's Comment

money has to come from him. Do it in a light carefree way. You might, for example, come to work bare-footed some morning. If he happens to notice it, just laugh and say:

"Well, boss, you know things are getting so expensive a man has to begin cutting down on luxuries."

And the chances are he'll give you a raise that very day. Or—at the very least—he'll come in the next day carrying a pair of his own second-hand shoes for you.

In either case you'll know he has you in mind.

New York—(AP)—The last thing I would want to be in this town is a pigeon.

This is because the last living thing in New York City will probably be a pigeon. So a man who wants to be the final creature alive will probably have to grow feathers.

Is that hard? Why should it worry a man? It has never troubled a pigeon.

As a simple matter of survival, I don't see how people really can afford much longer to meet the stress and strain of Manhattan life without planting a few feathers here and there east and west of their armpits.

Isn't that wings will make them angels. It is just that they need feathers now to get around.

A broken electric current halts the subways. Sleet stops the buses. A labor dispute ties up the taxis. In emergencies like these how can New Yorkers go to business except by growing feathers and flapping their arms? After all, they lost the ability to walk long ago. But with feathers they can winkle their wings and fly where they want to.

Anybody who can't grow feathers will just have to fall by the way. Sooner or later a man without feathers will be as rare here as a sparrow with fur.

And it will be all to the good. A sporting motorist would certainly rather aim at a feathery pedestrian than the present type, uneasy in a springy wool suit.

And look at the money a man could save! What woman, when sprouting feathers was fashionable, would want to deck herself in outdoor mink? None at all. All their pin money would go to sewing pin feathers here and there about their bustles.

The big problem is that if people are forced to live like pigeons to survive, what can the pigeons do? Live like people: will they learn to peck out a steak and throw it on the pavement for humans just as people now toss out popcorn for pigeons?

Certainly no pigeon with a sense of dignity is going to stoop to competing with human beings. If humans grow feathers and fly, the pigeons are going to douse themselves with hair tonic and learn how to walk—people-toed, as the Broadway joke goes.

But pigeons don't look on life as all feathers and fun. They are here to stay, though the concrete skyscrapers fall, and the steel bowers of Wall Street bend to earth. Pigeons are more sensible than people.

People may lack housing. Pigeons never do. The more chaotic the human race becomes, the more war destroys its fine buildings, well—the more rubble crannies there are for a fastidious pigeon to lay her eggs in. She doesn't pay rent. Her house is always on the house.

You can hire a lady to fight a bull. You can bully a bear into fighting a man. You can pay, bribe or annoy practically anybody into trying to muscle down anybody else. But there isn't enough popcorn in the world to hire one flock of pigeons to exterminate another flock.

In the tumult of their wings beats a pattern of peace. And thoughtful people are still trying to catch up with the pigeons.

The camp can accommodate 150 children. Last year there were 77 in attendance. Several young folks from this section attended last year.

We received a card from Mrs. Dan Houghwot, of Russell, portmarked in Pocatello, Idaho, which she wrote on the train going through Wyoming on her trip to Oregon. Mrs. Houghwot says, "Some rugged country. No buildings in sight for miles. Not as many trees as houses. Haven't seen any since 9 a. m. We have come fast and a long ways. Have seen lots of baled hay which was dropped for the cattle during the winter by airplanes."

The state highway has been hauling gravel with their trucks to improve the new gravel road over the hill in places the past few days.

A truck from the Lottsville Livestock Market was over the hill Wednesday after a load of cattle for the commission sale which is held every Wednesday afternoon. The farmer can get his cattle trucked to market at the price of $1.00 per head. If the sale of the cattle does not suit him the farmer can have them returned for the same charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Covell, of Pleasant Township, were Sunday visitors of their son, Robert Covell and family.

Mr. and Willis Wentworth and daughters, Dora and Sarah, and son, George, and Miss Dora Grewe were visitors of the former's cousin, Mrs. Clara Gray, of Warren, Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Camp, of Clymer, N. Y., were visiting friends in this section Friday.

Leslie Upperman, of Columbus, is our new driver on the Earl Messinger's milk truck which hauls the milk to the Carnation plant in Corry.

John Carr, of Lottsville, was a visitor on the hill Friday.

W. C. Leofsky, of Barland, and Willis Wentworth, of Cole Hill, are the first farmers to report having oats planted last Wednesday.

The Bell Telephone company's truck was on the hill Wednesday connecting wires to the fire tower. According to Inspector Dan Mourter, there is some talk of closing the tower. Since the fire tower was built in 1926 we have not had any bad fires on Cole Hill.

Several farmers have been offering young pigs for sale in this section. The prices of young pigs are lower than in previous years.

Several farmers attended the auction sale Friday at the home of Gladys Williams near Spring Creek. Mrs. Williams was the wife of Andy Williams, who died recently. There was a large crowd at the sale with Arthur Scouter as auctioneer.

Sixty Years Old

We learned too late for very extensive comment on Friday that the Children's Aid Society has a birthday anniversary this month, its 60th. Minutes of the organization show that a meeting was held Monday afternoon, April 8, 1889, in the parlors of Mrs. I. G. Lacy's home, West Third avenue, next to the Misses Lesser store, by a group of women interested in forming a Children's Aid Society. From the same minute book we learn that Miss Helen Wallace Hinkley, secretary of the Children's Aid Society of Pennsylvania, was present to address the group on the objectives and methods of the society. After some informal discussion, the meeting was organized, Miss Hinkley acting as chairman and Mrs. Charles H. Noyes as secretary pro tem. A Children's Aid Society was then organized, with Mrs. Stone elected chairman; Mrs. W. V. Hazeltine, secretary, and Mrs. James O. Parmlee, treasurer.

Later records show that on May 10 of the same year, the initial meeting of the new group was held, with Mrs. Stone in the chair. Following the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting, an election took place in which Mrs. E. N. Smith was chosen vice president to serve with the officers given above. An executive committee was appointed as follows: Mrs. I. G. Lacy, Mrs. C. C. Thompson, Mrs. Gordon Williams, Mrs. Dunkle, Mrs. A. Gerould, Mrs. L. B. Hoffman, Mrs. A. Ruhlman and Miss Amelia Keller. Mrs. J. O. Parmlee was appointed to be the visitor for the following month.

A motion was made and carried that the following advertisement appear in the county papers: "Wanted—By the Children's Aid Society of Pennsylvania a kind family to board a child at $1.50 per week (with a view to adoption). References required." Another motion made and carried set the membership fee at 50 cents. Also at this meeting, the secretary was instructed to write to the state secretary for information in regard to the various details of the constitution and by-laws of the society.

Edna Simpson Is Head of New Slate For Rebekah Lodge PAK Choir Concert

A very pleasant meeting of Lady Warren Rebekah Lodge on Friday evening was featured by installation of officers for the district deputy president, Edith Agren, with the district deputy marshal, Rose Kinkead, and their staff.

Edna Simpson was installed as noble grand, with the following comprising her slate: Clara Putnam, vice grand; Martha Edwards, recording secretary, and the following appointive officers:

Betty Geer closed a very successful term of office as noble grand by presenting a fine report after she had presented each of her officers with a remembrance and a corsage, the officers gave her a gold bracelet in appreciation of her unflinching efforts in their behalf. The lodge presented her with a past grand's jewel.

Another presentation honored the installing officer, whose husband, Clarence Agren, and members of her installing staff, remembered her with a past district deputy president's jewel.

Amanda Grindlay and Ella Wallace were chairman of the committee which served refreshments to the membership and guest members from Sheffield, Russell and Jamestown.

This Friday's meeting will open with a six o'clock supper, with Ruella Yeager in charge.

Fine Performance Is Anticipated In PAK Choir Concert

Another outstanding performance by the PAK Choir is assured for April 23rd in the Woman's Club auditorium, under the leadership of Mrs. Everett Elliott, the choir's new director.

Proceeds of the concert will be used for charitable purposes this year, as last, when $50 was given to the Warren Relief Association and about $250 sent to teen-aged boys and girls of Europe through CARE. Some of these packages were sent by air-lift into the American zone in Berlin, it has been learned.

Included among numbers for this year's concert will be Fred Waring's arrangement of "The Nutcracker Suite," as well as groups of religious numbers and negro spirituals, selections from "Oklahoma" and "Naughty Marjetta," and others.

In addition to the choir, a duo, a boys' quartet, a girls' double trio and a double quartet of boys and girls will participate. Charles Hutchings, the choir's talented pianist, will play a piano solo.

Elliot, the group's new leader, is an accomplished musician and director. She is a graduate of Oklahoma University, where she played first chair oboe, against competition in the Oklahoma Symphony Orchestra for three years.

She has won several scholarships for her ability as a musician and has directed several instrumental and choral groups.

Under her able direction, the coming concert is sure to be one of the outstanding musical programs Warren music lovers will have the privilege to enjoy.

Tickets for the event are available from choir members or at the offices of the First Presbyterian, Trinity Memorial and First Methodist churches.

College Club Has Excellent Program

More than 90 members and guests attended the open meeting held by Warren College Club for its regular session in the YWCA activities building.

The president, Doris E. Newell, welcomed the guests and presented the program chairman, Miss Guinevere Knapp, who, in turn, introduced the guest speaker, Randolph Thompson, a specialist in wild life, but in natural resources as well. He pointed out that our domestic animals were wild at one time and have been tamed and taught by man. His pictures included, also, stands of hemlocks and white birch trees, some of the public parks, and birds of Pennsylvania.

Following his program, refreshments were served in the dining room, at an attractively appointed table suggestive of the Easter season. Miss Mary Church was chairman of the hostess committee, with the following aides: Mrs. Donald Doherty, Mrs. Leo Felt, Mrs. R. M. Stewart, Mrs. N. P. Wendelboe, Mrs. William Byrnes, Miss Florence Shawkey, Miss Marjorie Wertman, Miss Doris Fairfield, Miss Bertha Battaglia, Mrs. R. C. Thompson, Miss Gertrude Slater, Mrs. Everett Eddy and Mrs. Arch Brown. Mrs. N. P. Wendelboe, Mrs. Marjorie Wertman presided at the tea table.

The next meeting will be the annual dinner and business meeting to be held at the YWCA on Wednesday, May 11, at 6:30 p. m.

President's Cancer Control Proclamation

The following is the text of the Proclamation establishing April 1949 as Cancer Control Month as issued by President Truman.

WHEREAS for many years cancer has steadily increased in importance as a cause of death in this country and now accounts for approximately one death in every eight; and

WHEREAS according to the best medical opinion a large number of cancer deaths could be prevented if full use were made of our present knowledge concerning early diagnosis and treatment of the disease; and

WHEREAS every citizen should be informed of the nature of cancer and the available means of combating it; and

WHEREAS the program of cancer education, research and control undertaken by the Federal and State Governments and by private organizations must have the wholehearted support of our people if we are to make progress against the disease; and

WHEREAS by a joint resolution approved March 28, 1939 (52 Stat. 1943), the Congress authorized and requested the President to issue annually a proclamation setting apart the month of April as Cancer Control Month;

NOW, THEREFORE, I HARRY S. TRUMAN, President of the United States of America, do hereby set apart the month of April 1949 as Cancer Control Month; and I invite the Governor of the several States and Territories and possessions of the United States to issue similar proclamations.

I also invite the medical profession, the press, the radio, the motion-picture industry, and all organizations and individuals interested in a national program for the control of cancer by education and other cooperative means to unite during the month of April in a public dedication to this program and in a concerted effort to impress upon the people of the nation the necessity for such a program.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Seal of the United States of America to be affixed.

DONE at the City of Washington this tenth day of March in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and forty-nine and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and seventy-third.

Mrs. D. E. Conaway Re-elected Head Of Woman's Club for Another Season

More than 100 members of the Woman's Club gathered in the clubhouse Saturday afternoon for a beautifully appointed one o'clock luncheon and annual business session which included reelection of Mrs. D. E. Conaway as president of the organization.

Tables, attractively arranged by Mrs. Carl Hultberg and Mrs. E. M. Branch, Sr., were all centered with bowls of forsythia, daffodils, jonquils and pussy willows, flanked by foliage-green candles in brass holders. A long table by the stage seated officers and board members and just in front of it was a smaller table honoring past presidents of the club.

Seated here were Mrs. W. F. Henry, who served from 1913 to 1915 as first club president; Miss Ella M. Tybout, who headed the group for two terms; Miss Anna G. Rockwell, Mrs. W. F. Clinger, Mrs. E. W. Knapp, Mrs. Moss Corbally, Mrs. Gerald Wright and Mrs. William Crockett. Unable to be present for the event were three others, Mrs. J. W. A. Luce, who was out of town; Mrs. George Dunham, of Pleasantville, and Miss Laura Snyder, who is ill.

The invocation was given by Mrs. W. E. Lutz, Sr. Following the serving, a delightful interlude of music was provided by the Warren Boy Choir, which performed admirably under the direction of its accompanist, Miss Evelyn Volschenkoff. The boys, presented by Mrs. Harriett Wilkins, music chairman, sang, "Lord of Hosts," "Vesper Hymn," "Down Mobile" and, for an encore, "Nobody Knows." Numbers were announced by Jimmie Valone.

Mrs. Conaway welcomed members and guests, expressed her thanks to the young singers and introduced the honored group of past presidents. She mentioned, also, four others, now de-

Driver Enters Guilty Plea After Crash

Frank Stino, Pittsfield RD 1, pleaded guilty on Saturday before Justice of the Peace Fred Whitney, of Pittsfield, to charges of reckless driving and operating without lights, following his arrest on Friday night by state police as the result of an accident near the Shady Nook Inn.

The accident occurred about 6:30 o'clock when Stino, proceeding toward Corry without lights, ran off the road to the right and then back onto the road directly into another car operated by Harry Jaguth, of Corry. Mrs. Jaguth, a passenger in her husband's car, was taken to Warren General Hospital where she was treated for head lacerations.

Stino was fined $20 and costs on the reckless driving charge and $10 and costs on the charge of operating without lights. Damage to the two cars was estimated at about $800 by state police.

Scramble on For Eberharter's Post

Pittsburgh, April 11—(AP)—State Rep. Homer S. Brown of Pittsburgh hopes to succeed Rep. Herman Eberharter in Congress if the latter resigns to become a federal district judge.

Democratic leaders have recommended to President Truman that Eberharter, now representing the 32nd congressional district, be named judge to succeed Robert M. Gibson who resigned. Brown and Eberharter are Democrats.

The congressional post would be filled by a special election if the president names Eberharter judge, the senate confirms the appointment and Eberharter resigns from congress to take the judgeship.

Meanwhile, western Pennsylvania's present two federal judges say they need help. But they deny a report there is any other difficulty.

Chief Judge John Biggs, Jr., of the U. S. Court of Appeals told a house committee recently that Judge Nelson McVicar was old and ill and the Judge Wallace S. Gourley is ill from overwork.

The couple resided for a short time in Greenville before coming to Pittsfield. Besides her husband and mother she is survived by the following sisters: Mrs. Isabelle Roberts, Jamestown, N. House Pushes For Action on ECA Program

(From Page One)

Rep. Preston (D-Ga.) told reporters he is going to try for a reduction of about 10 per cent on about $500,000,000. Rep. Lawrence H. Smith (R-Wis.) already had announced he would attempt a similar cut, applied a little differently.

And Rep. Taber (R-NY) said the program could stand a trimming of more than 20 per cent—something beyond $1,000,000,000.

There were similar efforts in the senate. But the $550,000,000 authorization they failed.

Even the house people who want to lower the amount say they favor or to western Europe for another 15 months. And many of those who are against a bill of any size concede they are going to get locked.

"I'm going to vote against it," Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich.) remarked. "But I don't think I'll make a speech about it."

The house moved today's session up an hour, to 11 a. m. to polish off 50 minutes of debate and then start the bill through the amending process.

A vote on passage was possible late today, and that was the goal. But many members figured the decision would go over at least until tomorrow.

It spelled "Fins" to the two-day and two-night vigil for the distraught parents, who had received hundreds of telegrams from well wishers, many offering suggestions how to rescue the child. The rescuers appeared to take the result beautifully," said a physician. But their grief was deep inside.

"There is nothing we can say but merely thank all the people who have been helpful," said the mother and father. Ficus is San Marino branch manager for the company which sank the well. Only last week he had urged enactment of a state law to cap all old wells.

Rescue workers knew they were in for trouble when a water table was struck at about the 40th hour of operations. However, hopes were kept up in the belief that the child was trapped above the water level. Besides, they reasoned the well had been abandoned as dry.

But when the rescue team of Kelly and H. E. (Whitey) Blickensderfer dug through mud and water and cut into the pipe, they found Kathy lay below, not above the cut.

The actual discovery and determination of death were made some two hours before the announcement was made public. Engineer Raymond A. Elm, supervising operations, clamped on the secrecy pan. Later it was explained

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

WHY NOT DOUBLE IS PROBLEM HERE

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY
America's Card Authority

Written for NEA Service
One of the quietest and most unassuming of all bridge experts is B. Jay Becker, of New York City. Yet I believe any authority in the country would rank him among the five greatest players of the game. I have often expressed his idea that there is no such thing as carelessness in bridge. If you pull the wrong card, or make a wrong bid, and then say, "I'm sorry, partner," Becker will tell you that is a definite weakness.

In today's hand he uses another theory. Becker sat East. When S. Mogal, a former winner of the world championship masters team of four, went to four spades, there are few players holding the East hand who would not have doubled. But Becker's reasoning was something like this: "If I double and they make it, my partner's morale may be broken, and certainly the opponents will gain a lot of confidence. What would I gain by doubling? If I could have chosen the opponents' contract I would have told them to play in spades. Now they have moved at four spades in a most natural fashion. I am going to assume that they have a chance to make it."

The play proved that his judgment was good. His partner got off to an unfortunate opening, the six of spades. Becker played the three-spot and South won with the eight. He led the jack of hearts and West did not cash his ace, so the jack held the trick. South then led the queen of diamonds, the king covered and dummy's ace won. The six of hearts was trumped by declarer, and the nine of diamonds was led. When it held, South cashed the ace and king of clubs, then led the eight of diamonds to dummy's jack. The nine of hearts was trumped by Becker with the queen of spades. South let him hold the trick, and Becker had to lead the deuce of spades. South played the ten, and then led the ten of clubs. Becker had to trump, and was forced to lead away from the king and one spade, giving declarer the last two tricks.

When the opponents asked, "Why didn't you double, Mr. Becker?" he just smiled quietly.

Heating Appliances Are More in Demand

According to figures released today by The Manufacturers Light and Heat Co., nearly 15,000 applications for permits to install gas heating equipment were approved during the first quarter of 1949.

Close to 5,000 of these new gas burners, boilers and furnaces will be installed within 50 miles of Pittsburgh.

A spokesman for the gas company indicated that hundreds of applications were still being received. The former delay between filing of applications and granting of permits has been drastically cut, he reported.

While applications for permits are still required, the company spokesman declared that new sources of increased gas supply might permit further modification

Warren Company I Cops Basketball Championship Of PNG 112th Regiment

Warren Company I basketballers reign today as the 1949 champions of the 112th Regiment of the Pennsylvania National Guard. The local squad, comprised of most of the Struthers-Wells, five which won the championship of the YMCA-City Cage League, claimed the 112th Regiment trophy by besting Meadville Company B, 29 to 23, in the rubber match of a three-game playoff series on the Erie army court yesterday.

Closeness of the battle is indicated by the period-by-period scoring. The first stanza ended with Company I ahead, 2-1. At the half it was 11-8 in favor of the Warren five. In the third period, Company I improved their slim margin by gaining 10 points to two for the Meadville squad, but in the final stretch, Company B held the advantage in 13-8 scoring.

Don Gustafson paced the victory attack for Company I, accounting for 13 of his team's 29 points. Richardson and Thompson each collected eight points for Meadville, as did Bob Grosch for Company I.

Despite the closeness of the score, and the close-checking defense by both squads, the game was very cleanly played, with the officials finding it necessary to assess only three penalties against Warren and eight against Meadville.

Warren Bowlers To Get Slice of ABC Tournament Prizes

Scores posted by four Warren bowlers teams are well up among the prize winners in the 57-day American Bowling Congress tournament which closed Saturday at Atlantic City.

Minimum prize money score in the doubles division is 1078. Local doubles combinations posted these scores:

Myron and Bob Check—1214; Fred Gagliardi and Frank Gerardi—1181; Sam Cosmano and Pete Juliano—1111; and Jim Thomas and Harry Wooster—1098.

Five local keglers also will get a slice of the prize money in the singles division in which the low qualifying score was 560. They are Harry Clepper with 601; Dr. James Giunta with 594; Bob Check with 588; Pete Juliano with 586; and Jim Usabanski with 562.

In addition, the 2756 score posted by the Sylvia's Radio Tubes squad of Warren will be good for a nice cash prize in the five-man event, and all-events prizes will go to Bob Check for his 1812 and Pete Juliano for his 1742. Low qualifying score for the all-events was 1690.

Millers Take 2nd Half Championship In Minor League

Miller's Confectioners copped the second half championship of the Men's Minor Tenpin wheel Friday night when they won four points from Papa's Esso via the forfeit route. The valuable points put the Millers two notches ahead of the New Process Mailers, first half winners, in the final standings for the second semester.

A rolloff between Millers and the Mailers for the league crown has tentatively been scheduled for Wednesday evening at 9 o'clock on the Penn alleys. Comprising the Miller's squad are Seymour Caldwell, Ed Larsen, Howard Morris, Bob Moorhead, Don Miller, and Denny Calahan. The Mailers' squad is comprised of John Pierce, V. Mellander, Bernie Bloom, Howie Ladner and Stub McMichael.

Heavy blasting highlighted the Knights of Columbus American Division tenpin league firing on Arcade alleys Friday night.

Nick Mangus sandwiched a blazing 263 between lonescores of 157 and 171 for a 591 aggregate. He controlled his pinning efforts to the league leader, St. Joseph's squad. The St. Joe's were credited with a thumping 1011 second game and a big match total of 2702, but the scores won't be recognized as new league records since two of the team members found it necessary to bowl early.

Joining Nick in the high scoring ozone was J. Gurdack, toting the line for San Francisco, who also connected a Dagwood bowling smash of 256 between games of 204 and 190 for a 650.

Other nifty three-game totals included C. Bonavita's 189-199-181—569 series for Santa Clara; F. Gerardi's 205-174-188—567 series for Fordham; and F. Fazio's 190-158-202—550 series for Catholic University.

Andersons, standing third high on the Conewango Club tenpin league ladder, split even with Brown in a low-scoring match Friday night. Best three-game series was Brown's 489. Scoring:

Andersons 765 805 789—2359
Browns 782 709 853—2344

Halle's Garage held a slim one-point lead over Sunray Electric in the Junior Industrial tenpin league race as the result of league action on Penn alleys Friday night.

Halle's topped Norton Wood Products, 3-1, to make their record 42 wins and 42 defeats. Sunrays blanked Tidoute Hunting and Fishing to raise their record to 41 triumphs and 15 setbacks.

Bob Sandrock, firing for Cropp Engineers, stood all alone at the head of the scoring parade with his 608 aggregate on lonescores of 192, 214 and 202.

Streams In Perfect Shape For Fishing

Harrisburg, April 11.—(P)—The finest trout fishing prospects in years appears in store for Pennsylvania anglers.

The season opens Friday with more than 1,200,000 newly stocked brook, rainbow and brown trout of legal size in practically every public stream in the state.

"A mild winter has left the streams in perfect shape," said the State Fish Commission. "With half decent weather this week, trout fishermen should have banner catches on the weekend."

About half of the Keystone State's 600,000 anglers are expected to unlimber rod and reel Friday.

Chief Fish Warden W. W. Britton, meanwhile, said his entire staff has been alerted to guard against trout fishing in advance of the season under the guise of angling for suckers.

He announced that 23 persons had been arrested since early March on charges of illegal fishing.

The legislature, currently in session, already has taken steps to protect trout for the 1950 season. A bill prohibiting all fishing in trout streams for a month in advance of the opening of the season needs only the signature of Gov. James H. Duff to make it a law.

Under the bill, fishing would be allowed only in ponds or lakes that do not contain trout, except if posted against angling by the State Fish Commission.

Two Thousand Ships Are Going Down to the Sea

PEACETIME FLEETS of about 2,000 vessels (700 for foreign countries) of over 100 gross tons (long tons) are now being built in Britain. Pictured above are two new liners as they lay in London's King George V Dock before sailing on their maiden voyages. Top: The sleek Port Brisbane, a 12,000 tons motor vessel for freight runs between Britain, New Zealand and Australia. Her rounded superstructure makes the Magdalena, 18,000 tons and pictured bottom, seem more orthodox, but compared with older vessels the Magdalena is a streamlined, rakish ship. She replaces a British vessel, lost during the war, on runs between Europe and South America. She will carry 479 passengers and freight.

Pigskin Heroes Show Up Well In Southworth's Florida Camp

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—(NEA)—Those football players, who this spring set out to show major league managers that the violent contact game doesn't always leave an athlete unfit for baseball, have done a little better than all right.

Stanford's fleet Lloyd Merriman apparently is a lock in center field for the Reds.

The Red Sox are going along with the Connecticut Man Mountain, Walter Dropo, at first base.

Michigan's versatile Jack Weisenburger played all over the place for Pawtucket of the New England League last summer—at shortstop, second and first base, in center and right field, whichever job required filling.

But it didn't take Billy Southworth long to make up the young man's mind. The manager of the Braves told the Wolverines' spinning fullback to get out there where the second sacker walks his post in a military manner, and stay there.

It is as a second baseman that the 22-year-old Weisenburger was ticketed for the Milwaukee club of the Triple A American Association in his first full season of organized baseball.

Billy the Kid Southworth, ever looking ahead, is confident that Weisenburger will return to play alongside of Alvin Dark, and give the Boston Nationals the first real All-America double-play combination.

Dark, you see, scooted with a football under his arm for Louisiana State.

In a baseball uniform, Weisenburger, a handsome kid standing six feet one and weighing 180 pounds, looks like anything but the fearsome fullback who shot through holes in Southern California's line for three touchdowns in the Pasadena Rose Bowl, Jan. 1, 1948. In contrast, perhaps, his shoulders appear comparatively narrow without all that football gear.

Southworth likes everything about Weisenburger, including his attitude.

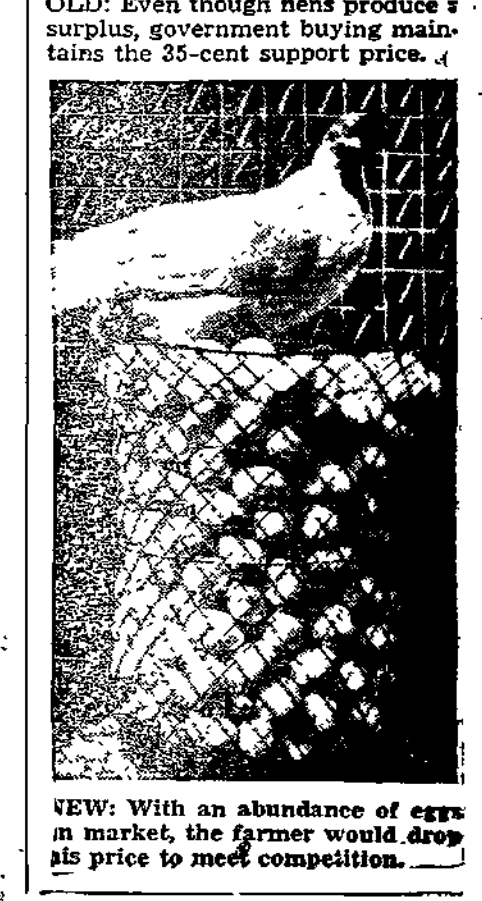

"With all the headlines he got in football, you'd suspect he'd hang around with the older players," says the winningest manager ever to come out of Sunbury, O., and a lot of other spots. "But he doesn't. He runs with the other young fellows."

"And he works like Alvin Dark."

"Look at Dark out there, fooling around shortstop even in batting practice. He'd sleep out there at night if that were possible."

If Jack Weisenburger works out anywhere nearly as well as did Blackie Dark, the Braves will have a second base combination that not only will stop the other side, but belt it out as well.

A few more Darks, Merrimans, Dropos and Weisenburgers, and baseball scouts will have to learn the intricacies of the modern T with man-in-motion, and what is left of the old single wing.

Chapter 24

"FENTON'S pen," Raff mused. "So this is Fenton's pen. Well, I'm glad I found it." He looked at Ellen. "Dear, don't you think we'd better go now?"

Ellen said, "It will just take a minute to get Al Vall's address."

"Never mind that," said Raff. "Just get Fenton's address."

She looked at him soberly. "Do you suppose it was Fenton?"

"I don't know. I'm going to find out what his pen was doing in a room to which he claimed he had no key," he said grimly.

She copied the address and handed him the slip. In a few minutes they were on their way.

The house where the Fentons lived was in the middle of a whole block of identical two-family residences, all badly in need of a coat of paint.

Raff stopped the car and told Ellen, "I'm going in alone. You stay here. I'm leaving the keys, and if I'm not out in fifteen minutes you go straight to the police station. Understand?"

She nodded and he kissed her briefly.

"Be careful," she whispered.

Raff pressed the bell. The house was dark and quiet. After about two minutes of silence he rang again.

A light became visible somewhere in the back of the apartment. Presently the porch light went on and a curtain on the door were parted. The door was opened a crack and a woman's husky voice asked:

"What is it? What do you want?"

"Sorry to disturb you at this hour, but I must see Dr. Fenton."

The door opened a crack.

"Come in, what you? Dr. Fenton will be here in a minute."

Fenton came into the room, hurriedly pulling on a bathrobe. He blinked at the lights in the room.

"This man, I want to see you."

Harold "Mrs. Fenton went over to her husband's side. Despite the friendliness she displayed toward him, Raff felt that she was ready to stand by Fenton.

He was beginning to experience a bad taste in his mouth. "Why, hello," Fenton was extremely cordial. "You're that young doctor fellow who was in the office this morning."

"That's right. My name's Rafferty. The men shook hands."

"And this is Mrs. Fenton," Raff inclined his head in acknowledgment.

"And now, young fellow, what can I do for you?"

"Dr. Fenton, is this your pen?"

"Yes, yes, it is. Well, thank you for finding it."

"I found it in Dr. Hubbard's office tonight," Raff said quietly. A change came over Fenton's face instantly. It was difficult to realize he had been smiling only a moment before. Now there was only frown.

"Why do you tell me this?" Fenton whispered.

"Dr. Fenton," Raff said not unkindly, "there's something I'd like to talk to you about." He hesitated, and then added, "There's no need to keep Mrs. Fenton up at this hour with our talk."

Mrs. Fenton made a move as if to go, but her husband put his arm out to stop her. "I'd rather you stayed," he said in a broken voice. "It's all right."

"MAY I ask why you've come here at this hour?" Fenton asked. "You're right. It wasn't just to return your pen. I want to know what you were doing in Hubbard's private office—the office to which I told Miss Carter you had no key."

"I can't see, young man, where it is any concern of yours." There was a slight note of belligerence in Fenton's voice.

"All right, I'll tell you what concern it is of mine: Dr. Bray called me last night. He told me he had some information that Hubbard's death was not, shall we say, due to natural causes. I was to be at his office at nine o'clock this morning and he would turn the information over to me. Apparently he had reasons of his own for not wanting to communicate with the police."

"But this is—well, confusing is the word. Is it possible that Professor Bray's mind was deteriorating and that this ultimately led the poor man to suicide?"

"I think that is what the murderer wanted us to believe."

"The murderer! Then you do think that Professor Hubbard was—"

"He didn't finish the sentence."

"Yes, Dr. Fenton, Hubbard was murdered by a very clever method. It was only at the autopsy that we discovered it."

"But, upon my soul, I don't understand Bray's desperate deed. He seemed rather unconcerned over Hubbard's murder."

"It's easier to understand if you realize that Bray was murdered, too," Raff said softly.

"You mean—it wasn't suicide?" Fenton said hoarsely.

"It was not suicide. We have definitely established that."

"The poor man—the poor, poor man," Fenton shook his head slowly from side to side. Suddenly he looked up at Raff. His lips began to tremble. "Why, then, you've come here—you suspect—you think I killed them?" He turned to his wife. "Martha, he thinks that I killed two men."

"Dr. Rafferty, just what makes you suspect my husband?" Mrs. Fenton's voice was still calm.

"We have reason to believe that the culprit had managed to obtain a key to Hubbard's office. I'm afraid I'll have to know just why Dr. Fenton obtained one."

Martha Fenton looked hard at Raff, then turned to her husband. "Harold, tell him about the letter," she said.

Chapter 25

FENTON gasped. His hands trembled. "What do these horrible events have to do with an explanation of the fact that I have a key to Professor Hubbard's office. On Thursday morning when I was informed of the death of Professor Hubbard, I obtained a key to his office. The next day I had a duplicate made at a hardware store downtown, and then returned to my home. Early the next morning I used the key to enter the office."

There was a long pause during which Fenton, rubbing his hands together, spoke. Finally Fenton went on:

"I went into Professor Hubbard's office looking for a letter of mine which had been in his possession for five years. It was a letter written by the mother of one of my students. At that time, Professor Hubbard had accepted the offer of a young girl, very prettily named, to marry him. Unfortunately, the girl developed a sort of infatuation for me."

"It was not, I repeat, a very healthy mental attitude for a young girl. And yet I felt that a reprieve from me at that time would have been cruel. And so I told her to leave the city, and since she was so interested and anxious to please me, I gave her the necessary details for obtaining a passport and a ticket for the next morning."

"Of course, I was happy to do it. I took the note into our then neighborhood chairman and explained the whole situation and requested a recommendation for

"Yes, I couldn't get in there on Thursday because Professor Bray was in there during the day. And in the evening I was giving an extension class in West Bend."

"West Bend? That's over a hundred miles from here. Pretty far to travel for one class, isn't it?"

"It meets just once a month. Dean Elliot has a class there, too, and he drives me out in his car."

"I see. Incidentally, about what time did you come back last night?"

"Dear me, I don't know exactly. It's usually about one o'clock in the morning. The class is over at ten o'clock and it's about a three-hour drive."

The doubt which had been spreading in Raff's mind now gave way to certainty. Bray had already been dead when Fenton had come back to the city.

"Well, you've been very kind, both of you. Do you happen to know the address of Al Vall? At the look of consternation on the faces of both Dr. and Mrs. Fenton, Raff hastened to explain. "No, he isn't a suspect. Not yet anyway. I just want to get a list of all the people in the department who have borrowed his key."

Fenton gave the address to Raff.

Raff thanked him and bade them both good night. The door closed behind him as he crossed the snow-covered porch. It was opened immediately.

"Dr. Rafferty, just a minute," Fenton called to him. "I had completely forgotten something. When I was going through Dr. Hubbard's office this afternoon I came across a bulky envelope. It had your name on it. I believe it was Professor Bray's handwriting. Perhaps it may contain something relevant to all this."

"Where? Where is it now?" Raff asked.

"Why, I put it in the intra-mural mail," Fenton said. "You'll probably get it on Monday morning."

Mackenzie's Column

The Liberal Manchester Guardian, one of the country's outstanding newspapers, puts it in part like this:

"The budget will no doubt be attacked on most sides for its austerity and on the labor benches, as un-Socialist. x x x the chancellor has had no choice but to steer a delicate middle way between the need for a surplus to check inflation and the need to keep tax increases as small as possible. — En-balance he has probably made the best of a job that only could be done badly."

In any event, the government reports improvement in the general economic position. Production is said to be well above pre-war level, and business is reported improving.

The taxation in Britain is tough. The average worker pays about fifteen per cent if single and ten if married. Above that bracket the standard, roughly speaking, is around 45 per cent, though it hits the sky with very big incomes. Thus the tax is slanted in the direction of higher incomes rather than those of working folk.

Naturally the nobility has been hard hit. Apropos of this it is announced that the Lord of Bath is throwing his ancient mansion open to tourists who will pay the equivalent of half a dollar to see where Queen Elizabeth and other famous royalty were entertained in days long ago. Sir Mark Annesly Norman is going to organize Mediterranean tours for Americans, and says he doesn't mind calling anyone "sir" if paid for it.
